Somewhere in France

My darling Mother Father & Sis.

Just a line dear to let you know I am fine and feeling fine. I received two dandy letters from home this week and believe me the reports about Mother being such a wretched coward fine and I hope you are all just as well. I am sure it must be such a comfort to be out of our old place and in the new home and it stands the reason that it must be healthier, I will sure be able to appreciate it when I come back.

We have sure been lucky since we came over here I mean as far as weather is concerned. It has been just like summer and believe me that helps a lot. Murray and I have both been initiated.

My letters will all be short now even Annabell. You just ask her if they are not. I am sure she is having so much to say and not be able

To say it. But some day I'll be able to tell you some rare old yarns Murray & I are both feeling jake and since we had a wash and shave this morning which is the first in seven days are looking better.

Remember me to all with lots of love to you all dears
Your Son & Brother
Bob.

P.S. hope you got my last letter
O.D.
